

February 22, 2010

To,
The Intersociety Council for Pathology Information (ICPI), Inc.
9650 Rockville Pike
Bethesda, MD 20814 – 3993

Dear ICPI Board / Dr. Mark Sobel,

Thank you for your generous help with the travel expenses, which enabled me to attend the ASCP Las Vegas Weekend of Pathology (February 18-21, 2010).

This was my first attendance at an academic meeting, and I have now realized the importance of such meetings to broaden one's horizons. The meeting provided a pool of learning experience with regards to various surgical pathology sub-specialties. Particularly this meeting was an excellent opportunity to abreast the new and upcoming topics in GI and liver pathology, with excellent speakers delivering comprehensive yet condensed knowledge on the said topics.

I feel that the time spent at the meeting was a valuable part of my education as a pathologist-in-training. There were only a couple of residents at the meeting and I felt privileged to have had the opportunity to attend a good academic conference.

I appreciate the efforts of the ICPI board to provide financial support to residents to attend such meetings and am extremely grateful to them to provide me this travel award. I will encourage my other co-residents to consider applying for ICPI travel award in the future.

Many thanks and Warm regards!

Sincerely,

Dr. Nikhil Sangle, M.D., FRCPath
Resident in Pathology
Department of Pathology
University of Utah Health Sciences Center
ARUP Laboratories
Huntsman Cancer Hospital
Salt Lake City, Utah 84102.
Email: nikhil_sangle@yahoo.com