ICPI Trainee Travel Award 2011

The ICPI Trainee Travel Award was very beneficial because it allowed me to attend the 2011 ASCP meeting recently held in Las Vegas, NV. The award gave me the opportunity to present my poster “Late Retroperitoneal Recurrence of Thymomas: A Case Report.” I was also able to attend a number of educational sessions, including hematopathology-related conferences, which is my area of interest. The meeting also had a number of conferences geared towards residents, including a resident review mini course series, which was relevant to me since I am currently in my final year of residency and preparing for pathology boards. In addition, the meeting provided a great opportunity to network with residents and faculty from other programs. Thank you for helping to provide me with this great experience at the ASCP meeting.
