Re: ICPI Trainee Travel Award Application

To the ICPI Awards Committee:

Thank you for the generous ICPI Trainee Travel Award, which I used to attend the annual meeting of the United States and Canadian Academy of Pathology in San Diego, California from March 1-7, 2014. I presented my work, entitled "INSM1: A Novel Immunohistochemical Marker for Neuroendocrine and Neuroepithelial Neoplasms." This work is the product of research conducted during my residency at the University of Wisconsin Hospital and Clinics.

Attendance at the meeting allowed me to disseminate my data and results, which describe a new antibody that I believe will have clinical utility in the diagnosis and possibly the prognosis of neuroepithelial neoplasms. I received encouraging comments, important feedback, and exciting prospects for future lines of research, including potential collaborations. I was also able to attend many different educational sessions and meet many pathologists outside my home institution and geographical area. Overall, I consider it a very productive trip, and I am grateful for the support of the Intersociety Council for Pathology Information.

Please find attached a photograph of me with my poster.

Thank you again,
